

MOO-VING TO THE METROPOLIS

Once upon a time, there was a farm.

A cow giving birth to her calves.

Vet: I'm sorry, one of the calves is a runt, won't grow up to be a big cow like its mama, and won't produce any milk.

Farmer: should i kill it?

Vet: or keep it as a pet.

Farmer: give it here ill go get job done

Daughter: Don't kill it; I want it as my pet cow.

As the year went by, the daughter became tired of the little cow.

One day, a cow peeked through the farmer's window and saw a TV showing scenes of the city. She instantly fell in love with it and decided she was going to live there and become a city pet. One day, a limo pulled up, and a little girl stepped out. The cow ran towards her, determined that she had to be her new companion.

Little Girl: Daddy, can I please have her as my pet? She needs to have me.

Dad: How much does a small cow cost?

Farmer: Feel free to enjoy the moment as the cow appears to take your daughter.

Dad: I noticed that. Come on, Buffy, time to go.

Buffy: Alright, Daddy, your new name is Chenny. Chenny, let's go, girl!

and the cow responded, lying down beside her.

They're on their way to the big city, and when cars start going too slow.

Chenny exclaimed, "Moove!"

Everyone in the limo burst into laughter.

They were almost home, and Channy was thrilled as the limo driver pulled into the penthouse parking lot.

Chenny thought to herself: Yes, yes, yes! Moo-hoo! My dream came true—thank you, television!

Buffy: We are home, Little Chenny.

the doorman open the door

Doorman: Welcome, Mr. Lifton. What do we have here, Buffy?

Buffy: My cow Chenny is my new pet.

Chenny: Moo-hello and Moo-ve!

Doorman: well hello you too chenny you want me get elevator man not have to wait?

Chenny: Moo-ve it!

Doorman: Right way, miss cow, haha!

Elevator man: Did she tell you to move it?
Haha!

Doorman: no she told you move it!

this cow does not like be keep waiting

Chenny laughed at the cow and let men it pet her.

they now on elevator finally to top floor

Elevator Man: This is your stop—the penthouse floor.

The elevator man saw Chenny's eyes light up as she spotted the top floor.

Dad: Chenny this are place let unlock what do you think?

Chenny: Moo, I moo-oove it!

Her eyes lit up brightly as she went inside,
and you could tell she was saying, "Yes, yes,
yes, yes!"

Both laughed hard.

Buffy: This is my room, do you like it?

Chenny: Moo, I moo-oove it!

she trying say I loved it

Buffy: this your room!

Chenny: Moo room, moo thank you!

Buffy: What does Chenny like to do?

Chenny: Moo-vie.

Buffy: All right, I have the perfect shirt for you—my Chanel shirt, it's just perfect for you.

Chenny: Mooooo-ly?

Buffy put on the Chenny, and it looked perfect on her, as if it were made just for her.

They went to the theater to watch a movie until dinner time.

Mother: Oh, I see you got a new pet, how adorable! I must have her as the model for my new clothing line of pet clothes.

Buffy: Mom, this is Chenny.

Chenny: Moo-kay!

Mother: Good girl, Chenny!

Butler: Dinner is now being served.

Buffy: You all go ahead, I'll be right there. Are you coming too, Chenny?

Chenny: Moo-Kay!

Buffy: I hope you're not too busy to hear my prayer, Father. I pray that my new cow, Chenny, can talk, but only so I can hear her.

and buffy not dinner table

Buffy sits down and eats Beef Wellington.

Buffy: You don't mind eating beef, do you?

Chenny: Moo-no.

Several hours later, the staff gets them both ready for bed.

A miracle happened in the middle of the night; Buffy's prayer was answered.

Zen: Chenny, wake up! I am your angel supervisor, and I assign you to Buffy. You must show her that she doesn't need money to buy happiness and teach her how to have fun without spending money. You can do it!

Chenny: Moo-got it!

Zen: say again in a normal voice

Chenny: You got it, Zen.

Zen: After showing Buffy how to enjoy life without spending money, and before you're called home, try not to get addicted to shopping. Well, got to go!

Angel left, and Chenny went back to sleep.

Mom: Time to get you two and Chenny ready for the photo shoot in the living room—let's go! And don't forget to get ready for your riding lessons.

Chenny is now at her photo shoot for the new line of pet clothes, and she's absolutely loving it!

Chenny: I'll teach her how to have fun without spending money after my photo shoot and her horseback riding lessons.

Buffy has returned from her riding lessons and is now upstairs getting changed.

Chenny is in the living room when a newspaper ad catches her attention, announcing free activities for kids in the park.

Chenny: This seems enjoyable and free.

Buffy: Hi Chenny, what are you looking at?

Chenny: Shall we go check this out?

Buffy: Sure, but I need to ask my mom first.

Buffy: Can I go to this, Mom?

Mom: Sure, you can take Chenny with you. The park will do her some good.

Both of them walked to the park from the penthouse, but the doorman insisted on having someone accompany them in the park.

They are now at the puppet theatre in the park.

It was Alice in Wonderland.

Buffy and Chenny laughed, loved the puppet play, and enjoyed every minute of it.

Dr: Mr. and Mrs. Lifton, I think it's time to pull the plug. Now it's up to Buffy to wake up on her own.

Parents: You are a blessing; if only she hadn't fallen off the horse during the horseback riding competition, she would still be here with us now.

Buffy couldn't hear them.

Buffy is still in a coma, dreaming about a pet cow.

Chenny and Buffy played in the park and had a great time.

Buffy: This is so much fun!

Chenny: I know.

Doorman 2: Time to leave.

The doorman escorts them both back to the penthouse.

Buffy: I feel strange; I think I'll go lie down.

Chenny: Okay, I'll be there soon.

Zen: Chenny, there's something you should know.

This is all a dream—Buffy is actually in a coma. The doctors aren't sure if she'll make it, and they've taken her off oxygen.

Chenny: Why didn't you tell me earlier? Will she survive, or is she being sent home to heaven?

Zen: It's up to Buffy to decide how much she wants to live; your job is to convince her to choose life.

Chenny: got it

And Zen slowly faded away.

Chenny: Buffy, I think it's time for you to really wake up.

Buffy: But I am awake!

Chenny: No, you're dreaming, I'm not real. Chenny faded out to Buffy.

The machine alarms went off, but Buffy didn't respond.

Chenny: you have life to look forward too

Buffy: Chenny where are you?

Chenny: I'm right here, so wake up before it's too late.

Buffy: I'll try to wake up.

Chenny: My father helps her wake up.

Buffy finally opened her eyes, but it was too late—her body had stopped responding.

Dr: Let's try this to get her body functioning again, and it worked—Buffy was awake and okay.

Dr. Your daughter be ok she alert and wake and responded to medicine

Mom: Can we see her?

Dr: Yes, you definitely can.

Mom and Dad: Buffy! You're awake—it's a miracle!

Buffy told her parents about her pet cow what she dreamed while she in a coma

Buffy: My cow keeps telling me to wake up.

Parents: Now that's a fine cow.

Dr. Your daughter be ok she alert and wake and responded to medicine

Mom: Can we see her?

Dr: Yes, you definitely can.

Mom and Dad: Buffy! You're awake—it's a miracle!

Buffy told her parents about her pet cow what she dreamed while she in a coma

Buffy: My cow keeps telling me to wake up.

Parents: Now that's a fine cow.